Know backbone of Golden Coin – Imperative Block chain

Block chain is unique and new database technology having autonomous and decentralized platform. As it is not own or run by any single entity hence property buying, selling or ownerships transfers are absolutely secure and immutable. With unique time stamp it also supports to track the transactions thereby giving an upper hand to its reliability. Moreover, as it provides real time information hence it considerably adds value to real estate transactions. In short, it has dictating edge over others thanks to its diverse non cash applications and services.

Pros of relying on open source software

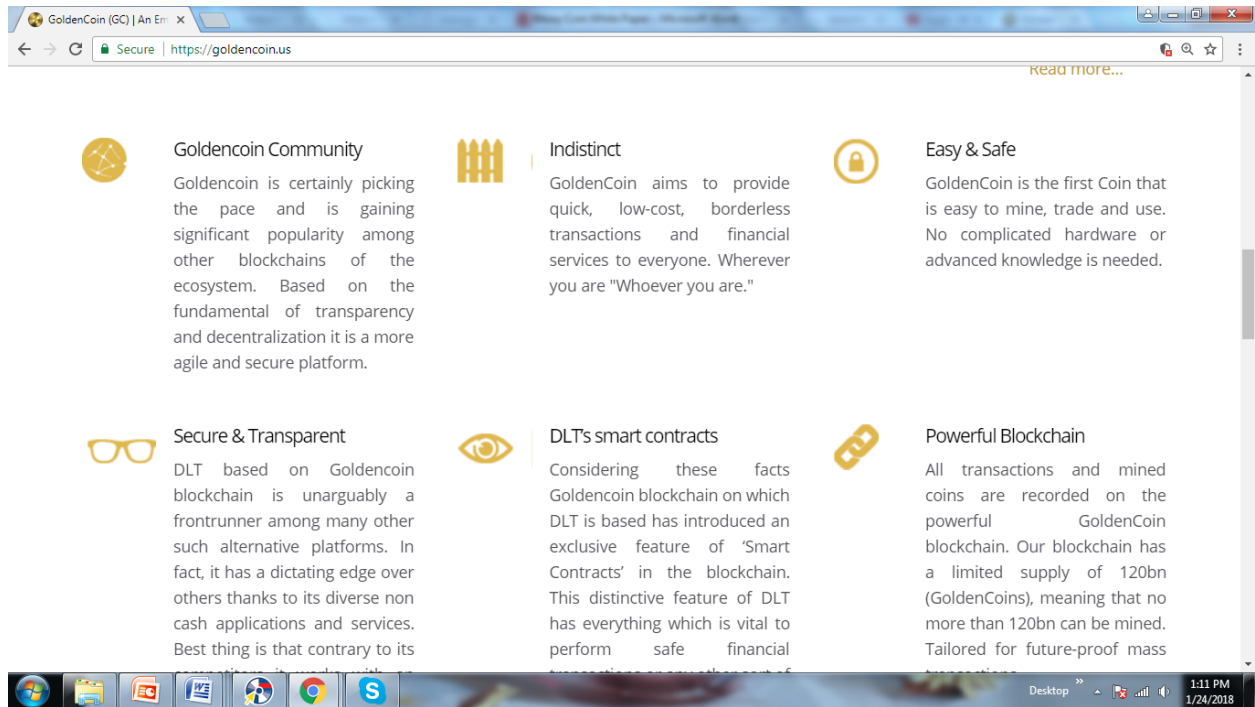

An open source platform motivates members to contribute as well as integrate the platform with other applications as per their specific requirement. Also, an open source platform nurtures transparency in all operations this simply means a member irrespective of his invested capital and status has complete freedom to track anything from anywhere.
